The Mary Parker Follett Foundation

Declarations of *Inter*dependence Contest

Elementary, Middle School, & High School Categories

Submissions Deadline: March 1, 2027

After Independence…What's Next?

In 2026, Americans celebrated the 250th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. That Declaration was a remarkable milestone in the history of our nation and the world. But after the Revolutionary War was won and independence as a nation was affirmed, we would be faced with a new challenge, and a new opportunity: learning how to work together and how to best support one another. This work of interdependence has been our work in progress ever since.

The Mary Parker Follett Foundation invites elementary, middle school, and high school classes across America to reflect on interdependence, what it means, how we need, depend on, and affect each other, and to draft and share Declarations of Interdependence that will illuminate, inspire, and challenge.

Winning submissions in the Elementary, Middle School, and High School categories will earn cash prizes for their schools. All submissions meeting criteria will be exhibited in a permanent online gallery.
